From Barriers to Breakthroughs: Financial Literacy Expert and Empowerment Speaker

Brittany Greene is a transformational speaker, educator, and entrepreneur whose life's mission is to empower students and young professionals to take control of their financial futures. From being denied job opportunities due to a lack of credit knowledge to building a thriving business as the founder and CEO of Crowned Financials, Brittany's journey is a testament to resilience, determination, and the power of education.

With over six years of experience in financial literacy education, Brittany has become a sought-after voice for institutions and organizations looking to empower underserved communities—particularly minority and first-generation college students. Her innovative programs, including the Credit Shoot Bootcamp and the Money Design Framework, combine practical financial tools with mindset transformation to create lasting change in the lives of her audience.

As a certified credit consultant and Ph.D. candidate in Human Behavior, Brittany blends academic expertise with personal experience to deliver insights that resonate deeply with students, educators, and professionals alike. She is the driving force behind Project Pre-Rich, a flagship initiative that equips college students with the tools and confidence to build excellent credit, overcome financial roadblocks, and create generational wealth.

Brittany's signature frameworks, such as the B-DECS Formula and the Money Design Framework, provide actionable roadmaps for financial success, helping students reframe their relationship with money, develop credit strategies, and align financial decisions with their values. Her unique ability to combine financial education with empowerment sets her apart as a thought leader in the industry.

Her audiences span colleges, universities, and professional organizations across the country. With her dynamic speaking style, relatable stories, and actionable strategies, Brittany inspires her audiences to break through financial barriers, build confidence, and unlock opportunities they never thought possible.

Whether she's delivering a keynote, leading a workshop, or engaging with students through her Excellent Credit Experiment Docuseries, Brittany Greene is a catalyst for change, reminding her audiences that financial literacy isn't just about numbers—it's about empowerment, opportunity, and freedom.
